Beatles Tribute in Plano, a Hot Ticket American English's Return Performance Sells Out!

If you haven't already bought your tickets to "Beatles Tribute Night," you will have to wait until next year to enjoy the band American English, which brings its act to Plano this weekend. The concert is scheduled for 7:30 pm on Friday, May 8 at the Amphitheater at Oak Point Park in Plano and is completely sold out. "As of 7:30 am this morning, we are 100% full—there are no more tickets available for sale," said Jim Wear, Creative Arts Manager for the City of Plano.

"Beatles Tribute Night" is presented by Plano Stages, as part of the City of Plano's Concerts in the Park series. Plano Stages also credits additional support from Core Construction for helping to make this concert event possible.

The final show of the 2009 Concerts in the Park Series will be on Saturday, June 13 at 8:00 pm featuring Still Surfin, a tribute group to the Beach Boys. The event is called "Surf the Bowl" and concert attendees are encouraged to wear beach attire. For tickets to "Surf the Bowl", visit planostages.tix.com.
