Plano Quick Link Makes Finding Regularly Needed Information Easier

Today the City of Plano Neighborhood Planning Program activated a new Web address at www.planoquicklink.org. The new page offers a one-stop shop for a variety of procedural information to help residents find specific information more quickly.

www.planoquicklink.org features links directly to information a resident can use, such as reporting a street light out, finding a homeowner's association, reporting a property standards complaint, filing a traffic enforcement request and much more. It's a collection of the most requested City information organized to quickly route residents to information addressing concerns and answer questions effectively and efficiently.

Check out www.planoquicklink.org today. For additional information on Plano and all of the programs and services offered in our All-America City visit www.plano.gov.
